The Federalist will want to condense and edit significantly (this is what they did to 4thwavenow posts). You should write and let them know that's okay. Or perhaps offer an interview

Another thought if you can get it on The Federalist. Take Trump off the ending and change it to "until the world is destroyed" or something to that effect. They're loyalists about those things. No sense upsetting them.

You also don't need to ask permission to publish elsewhere if you get requests. Let em have it. Spread the word. Full permission granted.

Your piece has been shared with the Federalist. They may be interested in republishing. Would you be open to that?

Yawn. Y'all get up way to early in your part of the world.

1k is really good so far. It's my trans community funeral, it may as well be big.

I figured that thing was going to create quite the stir. It's just poured out of me writing it. But thank you again for the clean up effort and for having the courage to publish such a raw version of it.

I suspect it may surge a bit again when the work crowd returns to their terminals. Or you'll get an even bigger surge if a media outlet has the nerve to quote anything from it.

I caught one other minor thing for the tweaks.

"There was a famous trans girls who used to think of themselves as a boy-girl." Just change to "girl" please.

If you want to for clarity it wouldn't hurt to add this link to the youtube video for the Janet Mock reference.

Without the video link, I think people may be somewhat lost on what was meant.
